

Throat Ailment Slows McCarthy Up In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) was confined to bed by overwork, excessive fatigue and exposure. What he needs is a day or two of rest but I don't know if I can hold him down."

Dr. Raulf Hanson, who examined McCarthy at his hotel, said, "The senator has a virus laryngitis with a sore throat and a high temperature. I strongly advised against his working Friday night but he insists he is going to."

Overwork Blamed
"His condition was brought on by overwork, excessive fatigue and exposure. What he needs is a day or two of rest but I don't know if I can hold him down."

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, charged in a March 6 speech in Miami that "political plungers" had persuaded President Eisenhower that "McCarthyism is the best Republican formula for political success."

McCarthy demanded free and equal time to reply from the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co. networks, which had carried Stevenson's speech.

Instead, the networks gave time to the Republican National Committee, which chose Vice President Nixon to reply to Stevenson. He spoke last Saturday night.

On Air At 8:30
As a result, McCarthy has billed an address here tonight to the Milwaukee County Young Republican Club as his reply. The Chicago Tribune station WGN announced it would broadcast the speech and offered to let other stations carry it if they wished.

McCarthy said he understood enough independent stations would do so to give him "fairly complete coverage."

The speech is scheduled for 8:30 p.m., CST.

Stevenson said in his Miami speech that the chief objectives of McCarthy and his supporters included "not only the intimidation and silencing of all independent institutions and opinion in our society, but the capture of one of our great instruments of political action—the Republican party."

"The end result, in short, is a malign and fatal totalitarianism," he said.

McCarthy, who made a speech in the 1952 campaign charging that Stevenson had given "aid to Communist causes," came here for his reply after two speeches in Chicago, where he lashed out at critics of his Red-hunting methods.

His schedule calls for him to go on to Oklahoma City for another speech Saturday night before he returns to Washington.

Times Get Tough For Italian Reds

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME (AP)—Premier Mario Scelba promised tougher times today for his arch foes—Italy's Communist party.

He pledged in effect to cut the millions of dollars in financial support they get from Moscow.

His new government issued a bluntly worded declaration of war Thursday night after a long secret Cabinet meeting. It said the Cabinet had approved a program to "defend democratic institutions against the action of totalitarian political forces proven to be under the control of foreign countries."

Informants close to the government said Scelba plans to hit particularly at trade organizations he believes are fronts for the Communist party.

The Premier was reported to have told the Cabinet that these organizations have pumped $30 billion lire (five million dollars) into Italy's Communist party for use in political campaigns and propaganda. In return, he reportedly said, the Red trade groups get priority in trade deals with the Soviet Union.

Chinese Who Married Sister Barred From America As An Alien

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Chin Tong Foot, who reportedly married his sister in Hong Kong so she could enter the United States, was arrested by immigration authorities as he stepped off the liner President Cleveland Thursday.

He was held as an alien who doesn't have proper papers for admission into the United States, although for 15 years he has been known as an American citizen.

As a sister of a citizen the "bride" could not enter the United States. But as a wife of an American she could. American authorities in Hong Kong said Chin apparently planned to arrange for her entrance after his return.

GRANDMA WOULD APPROVE — It was probably a combination of spring and 10-cents-a-cup coffee which inspired Bob Hancock of Hancock's Restaurant, in Asheville, N. C., to put the once-popular sassafras tea on his menu. But in Grandma's day drinking the aromatic tea was a regular spring ritual. Waitress Mary Cochran says most of the drinkers are curious. But not R. C. "Bob" Ingram. He's getting a refill. Hancock dug his roots on Gabriel's Creek in Madison County. He put the sign up more or less as a gag, but business came quickly.

Banker Who Ruined Clio, Ala., Returns; Denies Wrongdoing

CLIO, Ala. (AP)—Royall Reynolds, whose return home Thursday night caused almost as much commotion as his departure, promised today that depositors in the Merchants Exchange would get back "every penny."

The 40-year-old banker said the money would be repaid to anxious townspeople "about the first of next week."

He called reports that he had disappeared with between $80,000 and $100,000 "a damn lie."

"I told people we were going to close down," he said.

Reynolds, a Sunday School teacher and former mayor of Clio, met reporters in his new brick home at 7 a. m.

Jordan Blamed In Bus Massacre

By TED LURIE

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel readied a demand today for United Nations action on the ambush slaying of 11 Jews on a desert bus. The government blamed neighboring Jordan for what it termed an organized attack by armed Arabs from that Middle East country.

Jordan promptly denied any responsibility for the assault, which occurred Wednesday 12 miles from its border at Scorpion Pass in the barren Negev Desert. A spokesman at Amman, the Jordan capital, said his country was ready "politically and militarily to meet any developments that might arise."

The incident was the most serious in Palestine since the 11-nation U.N. Security Council censured Israel for the slaying of 53 Arabs last October in the Jordan border village of Kibya. Lebanese newspapers said in dispatches from Jordan that Israeli troops were concentrating at the frontier. Travelers reported on arrival at the Lebanese capital of Beirut they had seen Syrian military equipment moving southward through Damascus toward that country's border with Israel.

Grandmother's Plea Saves Little Boy From Flaming Home

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—While her home burned down around her, a 66-year-old grandmother pleaded with her 3½-year-old grandson to unlock the bathroom door and run to safety.

Rex Gordon Pettyjohn had playfully locked himself behind the door earlier, Mrs. Jesse Eva Pettyjohn, caring for the boy for the evening, refused to leave the house without him.

As anxious bystanders watched, she finally emerged from the flaming house, the boy in her arms.

Mrs. Pettyjohn suffered first and second degree burns about the face and hands.

"The whole house was burning by the time I could get him out of the bathroom and outside," she said.

Diplomats Spoiled

LONDON (AP)—Television's roving eye at the United Nations is killing oratory and turning diplomats into actors, complains Britain's retiring U. N. Delegate Sir Gladwyn Jebb. "TV is all right for recording scenes of historic interest, but delicate negotiations become impossible when millions of people watch every time you scratch your head."

Major Decisions Stalled Today In Legislature

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan Legislature was stalled today on all major decisions.

These factors prevented action on major bills:

1—The House and Senate appropriations committees asked Gov. Williams to redraft his budget recommendations to accommodate a civil service pay raise estimated to cost six to ten millions of dollars.

2—A Republican caucus in the House could not reach an agreement on the Senate-approved unemployment compensation bill.

Deadline Wednesday

3—The House state affairs committee postponed until Tuesday decisions on a fair employment practices (FEPC) bill and a bill stiffening lobbyist controls, both of which have passed the Senate.

4—The Senate judiciary committee delayed until Tuesday a decision on the controversial McCune Bill to censor television advertising of beer and wine. This has passed the House.

Wednesday is the deadline for reporting all but money bills from committee.

Some members talked of letting the budget bills go until the sine die (final) adjournment May 14. Others said "let tempers cool off until next week and see what we can work out."

The two committees wrote Gov. Williams that his request for a balanced budget was wrecked by the civil service pay boost.

"Give us a new budget," they said, in effect.

Caucus Monday

As a sidelight, Sen. Robert E. Faulkner (R-Coloma) sponsored a constitutional amendment to take away the Civil Service Commission's power to order pay raises regardless of legislative policy. The commission would be limited to recommending pay scales.

The House dropped plans to vote on the 44 million dollar welfare bill and the seven million dollar conservation and agriculture appropriation until the fiscal program was revised.

House Republicans ordered an 11th hour caucus for Monday night to tackle the Teahen unemployment bill again.

Republican leaders were tight-lipped over what was causing the delay in reaching a decision on the

A late winter snow storm swept over five states, with falls measuring nearly a foot in eastern Wyoming. Snow and high winds were general throughout South Dakota, western Nebraska, northwestern Kansas, northeastern Colorado and eastern Wyoming.

Dog Protects Boy, 3, Lost In Rainstorm Near Palmyra, Ill.

PALMYRA, Ill. (AP)—A 3-year-old boy, protected from heavy rains by his dog, was found early today after 250 searchers had combed woods near his home for eight hours.

Danny Pratt had been missing since his mother, Mrs. Leonard Pratt, gave him permission to go play with neighbors' children.

When a party led by coal miner Jim Stantling found the youngster, he was bruised about the face and soaked by rain, but his year-old collie Corsy was lying on top of him, trying to keep him warm and dry.

Danny was taken to a hospital at nearby Carlinville for examination.

Errors Checked In H-Bomb Test

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) said today a congressional investigation is under way to determine whether avoidable errors were made during the monster hydrogen blast in the Pacific March 1.

The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, which he heads, has begun questioning Atomic Energy Commission officials in closed sessions, he said.

Two committee members, Representatives Price (D-Ill.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.), Thursday called for a full-scale probe to learn why the 315 persons subjected to unexpected radiation exposure were allowed close enough to the blast zone to be endangered.

The blast, reportedly three or four times greater than expected, spilled nuclear dust well beyond the designated hazard zone.

Twenty-three Japanese fishermen, 80 miles away and outside the hazard zone, were badly burned.

A total of 28 American technicians and 264 natives, on several islands more than 100 miles away, were exposed to milder radiation.

McCarthy Is Handicap To Government, Says Democratic Chairman

NEW YORK (AP)—Democratic

national chairman Stephen A. Mitchell says that "running the government with McCarthy uncontrolled is like trying to land an airplane with a loose bomb rattling around in the bomb bay."

Mitchell also says President Eisenhower has caused a "breakdown" of the orderly processes of government through unwillingness or inability to control "radical" elements of the Republican party.

The national administration is reaping the rewards of "political cynicism," Mitchell added Thursday night in addressing a public forum at the National Democratic Club here.

Mitchell assailed Eisenhower and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) in the course of a speech in which he forecast Democratic victories in next fall's elections resulting from what he claimed to be a swing of voters back to the party.

The nation, Mitchell said, has just witnessed an "invasion" of the executive branch of the government by legislative committees on a scale not seen since the days of the "radical Republicanism" in the post-Civil War years.

Chicago Romeo Gets 20 Years For Fire Murder Of His Wife

CHICAGO (AP)—A Criminal Court jury says Vincent Ciucci, 27, murdered his wife Anne, 28, and must serve 20 years imprisonment.

After 2½ hours deliberation, the jury Thursday night returned the guilty verdict against Ciucci, pictured by the state as a philanthropic romeo who committed "one of the most vicious, brutal and heinous crimes in the history of Cook County, and perhaps the nation."

In Illinois, trial juries fix punishment for murder. The minimum prison sentence a jury may impose for murder is 14 years. Longer terms may be set, up to 199 years, or capital punishment may be decreed. In the case of prison sentences, the defendant may apply for parole after one third of his time is served.

Asst. State's Atty. Joseph McGovern had asked the death penalty.

Mrs. Ciucci and the couple's three young children, Vincent Jr., 9; Virginia, 8; and Angelina, 4, were found dead in their fire-razed flat Dec. 5. All four had been shot in the head.

One of the state's star witnesses was Carol Amora, 26. She testified she was the mother of a child Ciucci fathered, and that she and Ciucci had lived together.

Another witness, Frank Caruso, 48, identified a .22 caliber rifle found in the fire ruins of the little flat behind the grocery store Ciucci operated as one he had lent the defendant on Dec. 4.

Ciucci did not testify and his attorneys did not call any defense witnesses. They contended the state had failed to prove its charge that Ciucci shot his wife.

Throughout the trial, and even after the jury's verdict, Ciucci screamed his innocence. He also is under murder indictments in the deaths of the three children.

A sub-committee of the Freedom of Information Committee of the Michigan Press Assn. met with a committee of Regents Thursday.

A conference report stated some progress had been made toward opening Regents meetings to the press.

H. F. Bailey of the Adrian Telegram suggested the Regents admit only qualified reporters of the MPA and wire services on a trial basis.

Kenneth M. Stevens, Detroit Regent, said he personally thought there would be no objections to Bailey's proposal "if good, reliable reporters covered the meetings."

Harlan H. Hatcher, University president, said he would submit the proposal to the Regents and hoped to have a report when the two committees held their next meeting, scheduled within the next 60 days.

The MPA was represented by sub-committee chairman Brewster P. Campbell, Detroit Free Press; George R. Averill, Birmingham Eccentric; Bailey; Kenneth R. West, Lansing State Journal; and Philip T. Rich, Midland News.

President Wins Big Victory In House, 210-204

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower chalked up a big victory in House passage Thursday of a major tax revision bill without a personal income tax cut he opposed, but an even tougher fight was shaping up in the Senate today.

With party lines holding unusually firm, the House beat down 210-204 a Democratic move to slash income taxes $2,400,000,000 a year by raising the personal exemption for each taxpayer and dependent from $600 to $700.

Top Election Issue

The President went to the country by television and radio Monday night to urge defeat of this proposal. He said it was politically inspired and would be a serious blow to the government's finances, even endangering national defense.

The whole tax issue is certain to be aired at length in the coming campaign for control of Congress. There were sharply varying appraisals of Thursday's House action.

Rep. Kirwan of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, said that as a result he has raised from 45 to 60 his estimate of anticipated Democratic gains in the House in November. His Republican counterpart, Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania, replied that the tax action will bring votes to the GOP. He predicted Republican gains of 25 House seats.

Veto Predicted

As the battle over the higher exemption proposal shifted to the Senate, the administration appeared to face an even tougher fight than it had in the House. One GOP Senate leader conceded privately he believed the $100 increase in exemptions would pass the Senate, where there are 48 Democrats to 47 Republicans. In that case, the final version would have to be worked out in a conference between the two branches.

Just before the House vote, Republican Leader Yaleck of Indiana implied in a speech that Eisenhower would veto the revision bill if the Democratic proposal won.

In the showdown, only 10 of the 211 Republicans voting supported the exemption increase. Nine Democrats opposed it as compared with 193 who voted "aye." The lone independent voted for it.

The House afterwards passed by a 339-80 vote the 875-page tax revision bill to which the Democrats had tried to attach the reduction in income levies.

This measure would rewrite the entire tax code for the first time in 70 years. It covers such a broad range of subjects that Senate floor consideration of it may not come for two or three months.

George Leads Battle

Senate Democrats believe they have a big asset in that veteran Sen. George (D-Ga.), dean of the Senate, is leading the battle in that branch for the boost in exemptions.

George is the Democrats' leader.

Consider Forum On Question Of Electric Power

A public forum program to bring additional information to the people of Escanaba concerning the power problem and studies made toward its solution was informally suggested to Escanaba city councilmen last night by Mayor Robert E. LeMire.

Mayor LeMire said that he favors such a program, perhaps to be held in Escanaba Junior High School auditorium, where information in connection with a proposed contract with Alger-Delta Electric Cooperative Association for a power supply for Escanaba, and for a municipal electric generating plant, could be presented.

He suggested the possibility of having six speakers, three representing Alger-Delta Cooperative and the Rural Electrification Administration, and three representing proponents of a municipal power plant. Following presentation of information by the speakers the subject would be open to questions from the audience.

First Phase Report

The Council in formal session last night received from Hugh Grow, secretary of its power advisory board, five copies of the advisory board's report covering the first phase of the power study—the proposed 10-year power contract with Alger-Delta Cooperative.

The report to the Council is not yet available for publication, because the Council would like to study the report before it is made public. Grow informed the Council that additional background information on any of the points presented will be supplied if the Council desires.

Mayor LeMire expressed to the power advisory board the thanks of the Council for "its wonderful assistance."

The mayor said that Wynand Nieuwenkamp, Alger-Delta manager, had requested a meeting with the Council within the next week or 10 days to further discuss the proposed 10-year power contract.

To Meet March 25

Council set the date of Thursday March 25, at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall for a meeting with representatives of Alger-Delta, the REA, and members of the power advisory board who wish to attend.

Grow reported to the Council that the advisory board is expected to complete its report on the second phase of the power problem within a matter of weeks. The second phase is the study of a proposed municipal generating plant for Escanaba.

The City Council requested City Clerk George Harvey to work out with the Municipal Band an arrangement whereby it will relinquish use of council chambers for the next few Mondays so the power advisory board can meet there. The advisory board has been meeting each Monday night in Chamber of Commerce offices.

In other business the Council approved a project for extending water mains on 20th St. between 5th and 7th Aves. S. to the new public elementary school and set April 1 as the date for hearing objections.

Will Alterations Declared Void In Probate Court

MENOMINEE—A codicil to his original will, in which the late Thomas R. Hasley made informal penciled notations that changed specific bequests was ruled void in Menominee County Probate Court by Judge Katherine Stiles Laughton and the original will was admitted to probate.

Judge Laughton voided the codicil after taking testimony from Michael J. Anuta and Miss Jean Arnott, who witnessed the original will and signed it in presence of each other and in presence of Mr. Hasley. The codicil was witnessed by Roland W. Baldwin and Irving Hermansen. Neither could recall whether they had signed in presence of each other and in Mr. Hasley's presence as the law requires.

In admitting the original will, Judge Laughton followed probate court precedent in a comparable case in which the court held that "when a will is informally altered by the testator, the legal effect is not to make the will void but to establish it in probate as it stood before the changes were made." The original will was dated Nov. 20, 1952 and the codicil Dec. 13, 1952.

Study Parking In School Area

The problem of vehicle parking in the vicinity of grade schools in Escanaba was discussed by the City Council last night and was referred to the Safety Advisory Committee for study and a report to the Council at its next meeting.

Attention of the Council was directed to the problem with a request from St. Joseph's School that Council consider restricting parking adjacent to the school for the safety of the children.

City Engineer Loren Jenkins said that while in his opinion the condition at St. Joseph School is the "most hazardous" there might be similar problems in the vicinity of other grade schools that should be studied before the Council adopted a school restricted parking ordinance.

The city engineer said that any restricted parking regulation for school areas should contain provisions that would permit the restrictions to be lifted during the summer months.

The request for parking restrictions at St. Joseph School was brought to the Council at a previous meeting by Councilman Jacob Bink. Last night Councilman Bink told the Council that Fr. Stephen Schneider told him that he had "spoken to the safety director about it but nothing was ever done."

Councilman Bink agreed that the study should be extended to include parking restrictions for all grade schools.

Motorists report seeing from six to 16 deer on trips through the Cedar River area along M-35 and connecting roads. Cedar River residents report that it not uncommon to count eight or 10 while driving to or from work in Menominee.

Wednesday night a Bark River resident—he gave his name only as Curry—was driving two miles north of Cedar River, just beyond the pavement on M-35, when he ran into a herd of five deer. He missed four of them, struck the fifth. The front of his car was damaged, but he was not injured. The deer was killed.

Board Receives Legal Opinion

The Escanaba Board of Education, acting as trustees for the Anna C. Norton Scholarship Fund, yesterday heard an oral report on legal aspects of the sale of the Escanaba Daily Press from the board's attorneys, Denis McGinn and James Fitzharris.

The attorneys informed the trustees that their major consideration in the sale of the property must be to the beneficiaries of the fund, the scholarship recipients. The attorneys further advised the trustees that they must be impartial and that they can not make a gift of trustee funds to anyone other than the scholarship recipients.

The attorneys declared that in their opinion any mortgage plan in the sale of the newspaper must be confined to a maximum period of five years.

The legal opinion of the law firm will be published after it is submitted in writing.

Andrew Skaug, Escanaba accountant, presented an analysis of the bids to the board.

No decision on the sale of the property was made at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

Local Students Will Participate In Music Festival

The festival will be held all day, beginning at 9:45. Each soloist and ensemble will be given a division rating by the adjudicators, five members of the Lawrence Conservatory, and in the evening, some of the outstanding performances will be presented at a program in the Northern Michigan College of Education auditorium.

Attending the festival will be outstanding musicians from high schools all over the Upper Peninsula. High schools attending besides Escanaba are L'Anse, Manistique, Menominee, Republic, Kingsford, Gladstone, Powers, St. Ignace, Marquette Gravenet, Negaunee, Munising, Bark River, Baraga, Calumet, Engadine, Foster City, Gwinn, Marquette Pierce, Houghton, Newberry, Norway and Ishpeming.

Sportsmen's Club Will Meet Monday

The Delta County Sportsmen's Club will open its observance of National Wildlife Week, March 21-27, with a regular meeting at 7:30 Monday evening in Carpenter's Hall.

Henry Olsen, National Wildlife Week chairman of the local club will present details of the local club participation in the national effort.

National Wildlife Week is a nationwide educational campaign, sponsored annually by the National Wildlife Federation and its state and local affiliates. Its purpose is to focus public attention on problems of natural resource management and the pressing need for better conservation practices. The special theme for 1954 is water pollution control.

The business session of Monday's meeting will be devoted to deciding on instructions for voting delegates to the Upper Peninsula pre-convention meeting of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs. The MUCC meeting will be held in Escanaba on Sunday, March 28.

Following the meeting lunch will be served by a committee of teen-aged members.

Rain Turning To Snow Likely

Drippy skies with snow tonight and dwindling flurries tomorrow are the forecast of the Escanaba weather bureau.

Temperatures in the low 30s are due to succeed the warmer weather of yesterday which reached an afternoon temperature of 40, and with thawing temperatures all through last night.

An ENE wind is due to rise tonight bringing colder temperatures, but the change will not be enough to turn the precipitation to more than wet snow.

Rain is prevalent throughout a wide area—from Iowa to eastern Ohio and as far south as Arkansas.

The storm center is located in south central Iowa and is moving eastward.

The five day outlook, according to S. E. Decker of the local weather bureau indicates that temperatures will average 3 to 6 degrees below the seasonal normal. (Normal maximum 40 in north to

Soil Conservation District Directors Meet Here Tuesday

The directors of the Delta Soil Conservation district will hold a special meeting Tuesday, March 23, according to Edwin Bergman, chairman of the district.

The purpose of the meeting is to review and bring up-to-date the work plan and the calendar of operations for the district. The meeting will start at 10 a. m. in Room 308, Post Office Building, Escanaba.

Bergman said it was the goal of the district to analyze the work plan once a year. The work plan sets forth the manner in which the district will carry on its activities to achieve erosion control and soil conservation.

The calendar of operation is to set forth within reasonable estimates what the district expects to accomplish within a definite period of time and how to do it. This includes part of the educational work of the district such as farm tours, meetings, and working with civic groups. Also included are estimates of conservation practices that can be accomplished during this period.

Interested farmers or land owners are invited to participate in this meeting.

Directors other than Bergman who will assist at the meeting are Clayton Ford, Cornell; Onni Simmes, Rock; Ted Sundin, Ensign; and Robert Watchorn, Fayette. J. L. Heirman, county agricultural agent who acts as secretary of the district, and Irwin TenHaken, United States Soil Conservation Service, will also assist in the planning.

Off-Year Election Puts Pressure On Republicans

IN a short time now, the 1954 battle for control of the next Congress will be formally under way. Various states will begin holding primaries to determine contestants for the fall campaigns.

As usual in by-election years, the spotlight will pick out a number of important Senate races involving major party personalities and issues.

This time 35 Senate seats go on the block, 22 Democratic and 13 Republican. Probably 11 Democratic berths and six Republican—17 in all—form the main battleground. These figures might be contracted or expanded a little, depending on your definition of "safe" territory for the two parties.

Right now, Republicans trail the Democrats in Senate membership, 48 to 47. They control the Senate only on the sufferance of Senator Morse of Oregon, Independent, who believes the GOP organization of the upper chamber should be left undisturbed until after next election.

Nevertheless, Morse has served notice that he will change his position, come January, 1955. That means that if no contested Senate seats should change hands next November, Morse would add his vote to the Democrats' margin of one and give that party organizational control—including all committee chairmanships.

Thus it is clear the Republicans this fall cannot dare suffer a net loss, nor even afford merely to hold what they have. If they are to retain control, they must score a net gain of at least one seat.

They have 11 chances to do this, against Senators Edwin Johnson of Colorado, Frear of Delaware, Douglas of Illinois, Gillette of Iowa, Humphreys of Minnesota, Murray of Montana, Anderson of New Mexico, Burke of Ohio, Green of Rhode Island, Neely of West Virginia, and Hunt of Wyoming.

The Democrats, for their part, have the seats of Senators Kuchel of California, Dworshak of Idaho, Cooper of Kentucky, Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Ferguson of Michigan, and Hendrickson of New Jersey (not running) to try for among GOP holdings.

The Republicans have more to shoot at than their opponents do. Yet they will be under greater pressure for they must add strength to hold control of the Senate, while the Democrats can seize it by stand-

LOW PRICES AREN'T ALWAYS A BLESSING (The Grocers' Spotlight)

So many times in every business day, the grocer is confronted with the now familiar question, "Do you remember when coffee was thirty-nine cents a pound—when sirloin steak was only ten cents a pound—or when butter was just eighteen cents a pound?"

There are many times too, when we in the food industry reminisce rather blindly and wish for the days of those so-called LOW, low prices—forgetting for the moment the difficult economic conditions that accompanied those days.

Joseph Saad of the Trumbull Willis Market in Detroit recently found an old circular from 1934 which he kindly sent to The Grocers' Spotlight.

There was lard at 4½ cents a pound, hamburger at 5½ cents a pound, corned beef at 6½ cents a pound, bacon at 9½ cents a pound, oranges at 12 cents a dozen, and eggs at 18½ cents a dozen.

Glancing at those fantastic prices, causes one to dream blissfully until he is rudely shocked into reality by what "appears between the lines". Over the top of the ad in small print, is this significant line:

"WE ACCEPT WELFARE CHECKS, CITY CHECKS AND SCRIP IN FULL VALUE IN GROCERY, DAIRY, AND FRUIT DEPARTMENTS."

Do you remember when your store windows, your newspaper advertisements, and your circulars were plastered with those sad words. Do you remember when eggs were selling at 18½ cents a dozen, but how many could afford to buy only three or six eggs at a time? Do you remember, too, when your best sirloin steak was selling for 13 cents a pound, and how many little tots would come into your market and ask for "two pennies worth of lunch meat, Mister?"

It is much better that prices of foods, including the much publicized coffee at $1.25 per pound should be as they are—and that the average John Q. Public should be able to pay for it! Drastically low prices are always a prelude to depression and recession and they are invariably accompanied by inability of the majority of consumers to buy their needs—even at the fantastically low price.

An Illinois man owns 500 patents, but we'll wager some of the faucets in his home leak.

Have you noticed it's the latest thing not to have the sleeves of a man's coat pressed? Lots of men were in style ahead of time.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The man upon whom the White House is relying for advice on the prickly, unpredictable senator from Wisconsin is a handsome, mild-mannered young legal disciple of Governor Dewey—William P. Rogers, Deputy Attorney General.

Rogers first got to know McCarthy when Joe was a very junior member of the senate investigations committee back in 1949 and when Rogers was counsel for that committee. The Democrats were in command then, but they retained the able Mr. Rogers even though he was a Dewey Republican, and even though Truman had just defeated Dewey.

During the 1952 campaign Rogers became a close friend of Senator Nixon, traveled with him, and gradually became Eisenhower's No. 1 executive in charge of Joe McCarthy problems. To that end it was Rogers who went to Miami with Nixon last Christmas to persuade Joe to lay off the Eisenhower administration and attack only hangover Truman scandals. The agreement was honored for only a few weeks.

Meanwhile, Joe McCarthy is not merely causing Ike trouble, he is causing trouble for Mr. Rogers right in his own home.

The Rogers children of whom he can justly be proud, attend the Friends School, as do also the Brownell children. And after Attorney General Brownell castigated Truman re Harry Dexter White in a political speech at the school, the student body demanded that they hear the other side.

Among those who wanted to hear both sides was alert, lovely Ma y Rogers, president of Current Events, whose father is the No. 1 deputy to Attorney General Brownell.

The man picked to answer Brownell was none other than Michael Straight, editor and publisher of the anti-McCarthy liberal New Republic.

After Straight spoke, several students congratulated him, among them Mary Rogers. She explained that she was a Republican and loyal to her father, but she was troubled by the issue of McCarthyism. It was almost disrupting the Rogers' home.

"That man," she said, referring to the senator from Wisconsin, "comes to our house and spends hours with daddy."

BIG TAX ADVISERS

One amazing thing about the current 875-page proposed new tax bill is that ways and means committees—outside Chairman Dan Reed—have not known who the big business experts were who worked on it. It has not been unusual to have big business experts work on tax bills in the past. Their advice, as well as that of labor and consumer groups, was always welcomed. But the advice was always given in public sessions so that everyone knew about it.

This time it was given secretly, and Democratic members of the ways and means committee hitherto have not been able to ascertain who they were.

However they have just now discovered that the Jones-Laughlin Steel Company and Westinghouse were on the committee which wrote the corporate reorganization sections of the tax bill. They have also ascertained that Bethlehem Steel and General Foods helped write the pension sections which reinstate the provisions of 12 years ago whereby only top executives of a corporation can have tax-free funds set aside for pensions. Small-scale employees cannot benefit.

Congressmen also learned that Standard Oil of New Jersey helped write the section on consolidated tax returns.

"What makes you think that will get you out?" asked the friend. "I'm going to be in the selective service office of the National Guard," was Roy's reply . . . Cohn took his exam to enter the National Guard in 1950, the year the Korean War started . . . while working in Washington, Cohn managed to get special dispensation from the Washington District of Columbia Guard to drill with them. In the past this has almost never been given . . . juiciest portions of the Army report on Cohn-McCarthy-Schine et al were omitted. The original report was about twice as long as that the Army made public.

CAPITOL NEWS CAPSULES

Air Secretary Talbott almost spilled his breakfast coffee when he read the recent Washington Merry-Go-Round account of the closed-door congressional dressing-down given him by Congressmen Harry Sheppard of California and George Mahon of Texas. One of their colleagues, Congressman Clair Engle of California, an Air Force reservist, was all set to patch up congressional differences with the temperamental Mr. Talbott, but got a phone call from the Pentagon that things were still too hot to smoke the peace pipe.

Sen. John Butler of Maryland is a man who, when he has convictions, has 'em. And not even the White House can budge him . . . Butler felt strongly about the Bricker Amendment, resented the expert lobbying job performed by White House minions in persuading various senators to switch in votes . . . so, when the same minions argued with him for 45 minutes not to let the Alaskan statehood to Hawaii, Butler refused to budge. He voted that statehood for both should go hand-in-hand.

Perfumed Note To Hero's Wife Just Part Of Red Mental War

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

By NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Recently the postman delivered a heavily scented letter to the residence of Herbert Philbrick in White Plains, N. Y.

If Eve Philbrick had been the typical wife, this sweet-smelling epistle would have been a household H-bomb. Addressed to her and signed with a fancy feminine name, it described romantic evenings the writer had spent with Herb. It told of burning love shared by the two and asked Eve to give Herb up. It contained the line:

"Of course you never believed Herb was spending all those nights out working for the FBI, because he was really seeing me."

The writer wasted perfume, ink, paper and time. Mrs. Philbrick knew full well that the letter was just another tactic in the never-ending war of nerves and mental harassment which the Communist Party wages against those individuals who infiltrated it for the FBI.

"It's just as calculated and constant as the war of nerves which the Russians wage in their international affairs," Philbrick says. Philbrick and his wife, and the rest of the group, have learned to live easily with this over their heads. But some of the acts recall bitter memories and aren't easy to forget, especially when directed at their children.

at her physically. They just figure to wear you down and make a nervous wreck out of you eventually," she explains.

In spite of her apparent nonchalance to the danger of physical reprisal she admits she never walks down dark streets. She keeps the location of her house in Connecticut a secret and is very careful about making travel plans when she moves around the country taking pictures and lecturing.

Comrades never fail to try.

Unfortunately most of the group are pretty much on their own against such varied and aggressive Communist retaliation. By alerting local police, periodic checks and special protection when one of the group is actually testifying, the FBI does the maximum in providing safety from physical violence.

It has also helped some of them get jobs, willingly furnished character references and repeatedly affirmed the job they did when their past association with the Party hadn't been completely cleared up.

But there's little Uncle Sam can do in combating the smear campaigns, for instance. In many cases the Department of Justice knows who the individuals are behind them—in some instances influential and prominent people—but it can't publicly name them as Reds or left-wingers short of instigating Smith-Act charges of criminal subversion against them.

Looking back on their experiences working for the FBI, in spite of any current troubles or heartaches and inconveniences they suffered while doing this work for the government, not one of those interviewed would pass up the chance to do it again if he could.

"It's a chance to serve which few people get in a lifetime and there's no question that our lives are richer for it," says petite Mary Markward of Washington, who did much toward reducing the Communist menace in the area of the nation's capital.

This attitude is typical of them all.

OUT FOR A SPIN—Parents who would be horrified at the suggestion they permit their nine-year-old son to drive the family car, nonchalantly see him off for a spin downtown—on his bicycle.

They forget, of course that a bike is a vehicle and its rider must conform to all of the usual traffic rules and regulations; and they overlook the fact Junior can get into serious trouble, even risk injury and death, because he fails to observe traffic safety laws.

Bicycles are not playthings. Rather, they are vehicles and are so construed by the law. So when Junior starts to take his bicycle out this spring, go over with him the traffic safety rules that you (as a motorist) know and observe.

The danger to bike riders increases, rather than lessens at this season of the year. For the volume of auto traffic is on the upswing in springtime—just when Junior wants to start touring the town and even the busiest trunkline highways.

CHECK THE BIKE—Business Week magazine suggests that parents take a first safety precaution before they permit their children to start riding.

"Check the bike itself. It should have a headlight and a rear reflector for after-dark riding, a basket to keep both hands free. Make sure all moving parts—particularly the coaster brake mechanism—are well lubricated, work freely."

A bike that is in poor mechanical condition is in itself an invitation to disaster for the rider. Sudden stops must often be made in traffic, when signal lights change from green to red, and sometimes just to avoid colliding with another vehicle.

What this means in safety to the rider is apparent. Good brakes and an alert driver can avoid accidents that bring injuries and possibly death.

FOLLOW THE RULES—Every child who is permitted by his parents to ride a bicycle on the public highway should be prepared by teaching him the simple "rules of the road."

He should be taught to stop at stop signs and traffic signals, to keep to the right, to signal turns and stops. He may forget, but the parents have done their part in his traffic safety education.

The boy must also be taught that riding a bike is a responsibility as well as a privilege. This can be emphasized by requiring that he follow the law and obtain a license for his vehicle.

When he receives his bike license at the city police station he is also supplied with a booklet of instructions on bike safety.

NO FOOLISHNESS—One of the most dangerous habits of youngsters in combination with bikes is the inclination to "horse around" and "have fun."

The result is that the riders place themselves in hazardous situations, take reckless chances, and the fun sometimes turns into tragedy.

Riding two or more on a bike, trick riding, and weaving in and out of traffic are some of the most dangerous practices. Often boys pursue each other on their bikes, dodging cars, running stop signs, and generally disregarding safety rules.

These bad driving activities have a way of carrying over into adulthood as bad motoring habits. The twig is bent into twisted attitudes that result in the reckless driver, the speeder and the runner of stop signs.

UP TO PARENTS—Here is one field of juvenile activity that is the sole responsibility of the parents—they can either train the child to follow the safety rules or keep him off the bike.

Police are concerned, of course, and make an effort to discourage the youngsters from breaking the more dangerous bike safety rules. But the law does not define punishment of juveniles for violations. That comes later when they are licensed to operate motor cars.

The parents therefore must use their considerable influence in persuading Junior to conform to the rules. They have the upper hand and they can be more firm than any court—for they can take Junior off wheels and put him back on foot.

This is the season for bikes and kids to ride them. And this is the time to impress traffic safety lessons on the juvenile mind.

The Doctor Says... St. Vitus Dance Is Disease Which Has Family Tendency

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

St. Vitus dance, or chorea, is a strange disorder about which much still has to be learned. A family tendency to the disease is fairly common. Unusually bright children and those with a "highly-strung" nervous system appear to be particularly susceptible. It is probably related in some way to rheumatic fever.

The disease is somewhat more common in girls than in boys and affects principally those between five and 15 years of age. Some children with early signs of chorea do not appear to be ill but merely more awkward than usual. They are often scolded by their parents or teachers for dropping things and showing other signs of poor muscular control without realization of the fact that it is illness and not intention which is responsible.

In mild cases the general health is good, the muscles twitch only slightly and the speech and mental functions are not disturbed. Children with mild chorea frequently complain of fatigue. Emotional disturbances, such as easy crying and nightmares, are often present. When the hands are held straight out in front with the fingers spread, the jerky irregular movements of the muscles are characteristic and can be easily recognized by the experienced physician.

In the severe form of the disease the movements involve a lot of muscles and the youngsters may not even be able to eat or undress without help. Sometimes the speech is affected and a child may not be able to talk at all for several days.

The worst type of chorea is the manic form which is, fortunately, very rare. Here, in addition to the muscular movements, are several mental symptoms which may last for weeks.

WEAKENS MUSCLES

The muscles are weakened. The heart is sometimes involved, but often escapes undamaged. Irritability and emotional outbreaks are common. An attack lasts, on the average from eight to 10 weeks and most patients get completely well. Diagnosis is not too difficult if the possibility of chorea is considered. It is important to try to tell whether the chorea is of the kind associated with rheumatic fever or not because this may have a good deal to do with treatment.

Diet and long bed rest, similar to that which is given for rheumatic fever, are the main treatments of chorea. Because chorea involves the nervous system, sedatives are often advisable. The exact cause is still unknown, though a virus is certainly a likely possibility.

Small-Fry Choice - Edwardian Or Princess

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Springing from the unpredictable Easter weather of years past, children's fashions this year reflect the need for clothes that can double for warm or chilly days.

Lightweight suits to be worn under a coat, dresses that span the seasons and the long coat are all new for Easter 1954, are all the results of varying spring weather.

The two most important fashion themes for teenagers and girls are the little boy look and the completely feminine look. The little boy look is expressed by the Edwardian coats, and suits, and blouses and dresses cut with shirt lines. For the feminine look, there are the princess coats, costume suits and the wide-skirted dresses stemming from the princess and Empire silhouettes.

In the little boy coats, outstanding colors are gray and navy. Princess coats are best-liked in pale pastels and pretty watermelon pink. The little boy coat fools the eye in that while front and back are cut on straight lines, the sides provide enough fullness to be worn easily over layers of petticoats.

The span-season dresses are meant for wear under a coat Easter Sunday and after, then on into the summer. Cottons, semi-sheer silks and synthetics are important to these dresses. Many of them are cut in the princess or Empire silhouettes.

Lightweight separates that have a suit look and cotton separates that appear to be a one-piece dress will also parade in some parts of the country this Easter. These suit separates usually have unlined jackets, can be worn under a coat now and alone later on.

Small fry will walk in the Easter parade this year wearing fashions patterned closely after mother's. For little sister (left), there's a navy rayon tulle redingote with deep open neckline and soft roll collar. Box jacket suit (right) for big sister is in slate blue rayon flannel. Princess coat for little sister has striped rayon-and-acetate taffeta lining that matches her Easter dress.

Nightly Suds Are Best For Bras

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Bras are hitting a new low this spring. Combining a minimum of fabric with an increased amount of elastic, they are engineered to fit comfortably and becomingly. The new models are also prettier than ever. Some are trimmed with perky bows or touched with delicate embroidery. Fine cotton and nylon are used extensively.

The best way to prolong the life and beauty of these dainty garments is to wash them after each wearing.

Because more elastic is being used, the new bras should be given more gentle handling. When the garment is washed following just one wearing, it requires no more than a second's swishing in soapy water. Rinsing, rolling a towel to remove excess moisture and laying flat on another towel to dry take just another few seconds.

So, in the long run, nightly washing will be a time saver. There is no doubt that, in avoiding the necessity of rubbing out dirt, it will be a material saver.

There is another point to be made in favor of washing such garments after each wearing. And that's that no well-groomed woman should want to tolerate anything but the freshest of clothing near her body.

One Girl To 1,000 Men

OKLAHOMA CITY—Prof. Marian Mount is one in a thousand at Oklahoma City University Technical School.

She's the only woman instructor in a school of a 1,000 male students into which coeds seldom venture.

A female oasis in a desert of men, is the way the collegians regard Marian, who is 23 and often mistaken for a coed herself. That fact, she says, can seriously complicate the job of teaching drafting in the industrial arts school.

She must not only be an expert at drafting, she must also be adept at parrying advances from college Romeos.

To accomplish this, Marian is cool, efficient and businesslike.

"I have to be that way," she explains, "because when the fellows first come into the class, they're prone to flirt.

"By being businesslike, they sort of forget I'm a woman—particularly when they find out I know what I'm talking about."

Having a 1,000 men all to herself has another complication when the news gets around to wives of married students.

"Lots of women have called me on the telephone and bluntly asked me what I look like," she laughs.

"They usually say they are coming out to visit the class. That's when I tell them that I am short, fat and sloppy — and they don't bother anymore."

When all else fails and they barge in anyway, she has a sure-fire remedy. Mrs. Mount shows them a picture of her husband and small son.

FEMALE OASIS . . . Prof. Marian Mount, only woman among 1,000 men at Oklahoma City University Technical School, with some of her pupils. The catch is: she's married, has a baby, insists on stern discipline.

Four Townships Join In Hospital Authority Vote

The question of establishing a Community Hospital Authority will be placed on the ballots of at least four nearby townships for consideration of the electors of the townships at the spring election, April 5, according to action taken by the respective township boards this week.

Townships approving placing the question on the ballot are Ensign, Bay de Noc, Brampton and Cornell.

Consideration of the proposal has also been asked of Wells, Maple Ridge and Nahma Townships.

The Gladstone City Commission acted on the matter at the last meeting of the commission.

Approval by voters of any two governmental units is sufficient to permit and legalize formation of the Hospital Authority.

H. T. Brewer, who has spearheaded the hospital drive, is making plans for an educational campaign to acquaint Gladstone residents with the intent and scope of the hospital plan.

A public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday night at the City Hall for the purpose of explaining the proposal that will be on the ballot. Members of the Hospital Committee will be present to ask any questions which may be asked by interested persons.

Ensign Township also is having a town meeting on Tuesday, March 30, at 8 p. m., at which time voters will be given an explanation of the proposal.

Mrs. Theodore Peterson returned to her home in Mound, Minn., Wednesday evening after a several days visit with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Adolph Grandin.

Elks Lodge Elects Officers, Honors Old-Timer Members

Earl H. LeBrasseur, 322 Range St., was elected exalted ruler of Manistique B. P. O. Elks Lodge 632 at a meeting held Wednesday night at the Elks Lodge here.

During the evening, long-time members and past exalted rulers were honored by Elks, and Dr. James H. Fyvie spoke on the importance of relaxation and fellowship in the modern world. A smorgasbord supper followed.

Dr. Fyvie, whose talk was entitled "Relaxed Strenuousness," noted that relaxation is necessary for release from cramped inhibitions and fears, and that true relaxation is an evidence of faith.

"Realizing that all things work for the good, the relaxed man has peace of mind, and this gives him a clear brain and free exercise of his faculties in meeting his problems," he explained.

"Rigid, tense man is defeated before the battle begins," the Manistique physician added.

Lack of repose and relaxation produce a tense, self-centered person and many body ailments are related to this frame of mind, he noted. In the Elks lodge, men are able to relax and enjoy good fellowship Dr. Fyvie pointed out.

"The men who over the years established the lodge are entitled to a great deal of credit and recognition for their work, which was a labor of love, done without pay and often accompanied by criticism," he noted. They have given us an example of community service, which we can imitate to make our town a warmer, kinder, more relaxed community," he concluded.

Other officers elected were John A. Raffay, leading knight; Edward J. Doyle, esteemed loyal knight; Neil Reese, esteemed lecturing knight; James Carlson, tiler; William Hentschell, secretary; William Moreau, treasurer; Alex Creighton, trustee.

Other trustees of the lodge are John Kelly and Carl Carlson.

The posts of chaplain, organist, inner guard and esquire are filled through appointment by the exalted ruler, and are scheduled to be made at the next meeting.

Approximately 115 persons attended the event, which included watching of fights on the lodge's trial television set.

Suit Dismissed Against Packers

CHICAGO (AP)—The government dismissed its 5-year-old antitrust suit seeking a breakup of four large meat packing firms into 14 small units.

A stipulation by federal and defense counsel dismissing the suit "without prejudice" was filed in U. S. District Court.

Defendants were Armour & Co., Wilson & Co., Swift & Co., and the Cudahy Packing Co.

Earl A. Jinkinson, in charge of the government's anti-trust division in Chicago, took the dismissal action on orders from Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr.

Swift & Co. issued a statement recalling that when the action was started in 1948 "we said then there was no basis for the suit. By this logical decision the government shows foresight in dropping charges which previous trials have demonstrated to be unfounded."

Armour & Co. called the dismissal "a complete vindication of our position that the suit was without basis and never should have been filed. . . . We hope that the action taken, after more than five years of investigation, will forever end this harassment of our business."

GROWING SPIRITUALLY

By
E. STANLEY JONES

Matt. 19:13-15 (Moffatt)

"STRAIGHT TO THE HEARTS OF OUR PROBLEM"

The flower that keeps its head turned down to look at its own roots will never grow. It has to look at something beyond itself—the sun.

The center of the Christian redemption is to save you from yourself. Not that the self in itself is evil, but it is evil if the self becomes the center of itself, becomes God. The First Commandment strikes at this: "Thou shalt have none other gods before me." And the biggest and most persistent of rival gods is the self.

So the first Beatitude in the opening verse of the Sermon on the Mount begins with: "Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven" (Matt. 5:3). The word "poor" here is "anav," "poor by choice." So it could be translated: "Blessed are the renounced in spirit," or "the surrendered in spirit." The first thing Jesus struck at in opening His Sermon was self-centered self-sufficiency. Shift the basis of your life from your self to God by self-surrender. Be a God-centered person instead of a self-centered person. God sends a dart straight to the heart of our problem—the problem of the self. That must be laid down before we can go on.

But the moment that is laid down, then the self is no longer a problem but a possibility. "The Kingdom of heaven belongs to you." You don't merely belong to it; it belongs to you. All its resources and powers are at your disposal. Having lost all, you gain all. If you are centered in the Kingdom, then whatever you need is yours whenever you need it. All you have to do is reach out your hands and take it.

If the Kingdom of God, the perfect Society, is the goal, it is also the way to that goal. It offers you everything you need for body, mind, and spirit to move on to that goal. It supplies the End and then becomes the Means to that End.

The First Epistle of John seems to end on an anticlimax: "Dear children, keep clear of idols" (I John 5:21, Moffatt). But nothing could be more pertinent, for modern psychology would agree that the idol of self-preoccupation is the most deadly.

O Father, Thou has me cornered, Art Thou the center or am I? I make Thee the center now by self-surrender. Amen.

AFFIRMATION FOR THE DAY: I belong to the Kingdom of God; the Kingdom of God belongs to me, therefore everything else. (From the book "Growing Spiritually" published by Abingdon-Cokesbury Press of New York and Nashville, Copyright, Released by NEA Service.)

College-Trained Trout Toughest

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

Associated Press Outdoor Writer

LANSING (AP)—The Conservation Department has found out its "college-trained" rainbow trout survive the hazards of winter better than native or hatchery reared rainbows.

When the trout season opens April 24, a study will be made of how the specially trained trout stand up against the wiles of fishermen.

Several thousand trout were trained by Psychological Research Services, an independent consulting group, to be more wary than their trusting brothers in the ordinary run of hatchery trout.

By the use of special feeding devices and electric shockers they were taught to feed on the bottom and to scamper for cover when a human appeared on the scene. This is standard behavior of wild trout, but exactly opposite from normal hatchery trout.

The idea was to see if such training would help hatchery trout to survive better when they are dumped in the streams.

The first graduating class was planted last fall. Researchers have established that the trained rainbows are even better at getting along in the winter than the natives.

The trained trout have been planted in Lower Peninsula streams where close checks are possible on the numbers that are caught and that die off from natural causes as the season progresses.

This will be compared with similar figures for native trout and untrained hatchery fish.

In Washington, a State Department official said the tip was based on an "unevaluated report" which was passed on to city police by Edwin D. Lennerts, department security chief in New York.

The spokesman declined to go into details about the source of the report. He said Lennerts relayed it to New York police in line with the close working relationship maintained by State Department security agents and local police officials.

There was no comment from the FBI.

The shooting of five congressmen on the floor of the House in Washington more than two weeks ago touched off an intensive hunt here for fanatic Puerto Rican Nationalists.

The government contends the recent shootings in the nation's capital were plotted in New York.
